

NANOWAR OF STEEL
The Genghis Khan EP to End All Genghis Khan EPs
Release Date: January 7, 2026

A Journey Of Jolly: NANOWAR OF STEEL Bring New EP On Tour With Uuhai!

Parody metal masters NANOWAR OF STEEL are headed for the road—and they packed some brand-new music! What better to support their upcoming tour with Mongolian rockers Uuhai than The Genghis Khan EP to End All Genghis Khan EPs? Out on January 7, 2026 via Napalm Records, the Italian jokesters once again prove that they don't shy away from any style to add to their humorous repertoire, and that no shoes are too big for them to fill—evidently, not even mongol gutals.

Fittingly, NANOWAR OF STEEL's latest offering invites fans to a "Feet & Greet" like you've never seen one. Song-wise, this is supported by Amaranthe's Mikael Sehlin, and as a real VIP experience, it is divided into the tiers "Cradle of Feet" and "70000 tons of Emmental", the latter coming with a copy of the EP. Naturally, the Power Parody five-piece also brings it on with the catchy hymn "Genghis Khan (The Genghis Khan Song to End All Genghis Khan Songs)" with a feature from Enrico di Lorenzo of Hideous Divinity, as well ventures into the world of programming languages again with "Kotlin". Rounding these three new songs off is the previously released single "IRIDE", finding its home within The Genghis Khan EP to End All Genghis Khan EPs.

The physical version of The Genghis Khan EP to End All Genghis Khan EPs will be a tour edition—mainly sold at merch tables throughout Europe, so you'd better be there if you want to complete your collection! NANOWAR OF STEEL start their "Across Europe Tour" on January 9, 2026 in the Dutch city of Tilburg, fittingly playing 27 shows all across the continent, before concluding their campaign in Berlin on February 8. Joining them are not only Mongolia's rising rockers Uuhai, but also rotating openers. A tour to behold!
